EUROPE IS FACING CRISIS, SAYS MUSSOLINI

tional Crisis Which Might Be Brewing War.

NATIONS WILL RECOVER

Italian Dictator Looks for Period of Stabilization and Peace

BY H. H. WINNER

Rome—(AP)—Premier Mussolini, watching with keen interest the difficulties besetting Europe, believes that no international crisis "brewing war" exists, but that a grave internal and economic struggle, wracking the nations separately, is in progress.He has firm faith that Europe will emerge into a period of stability but that sacrifices will be necessary.
"Tell the people of America," he said, "that Europe is traversing a period of acute—most acute—crisis, but that I have a firm faith that she will overcome her difficulties. Afterward I am convinced that she will have a period of stabilization and peace."CRISIS IS INTERNAL
"Make it clear, however, that the grave crisis of which I speak, is not international, that it has nothing to do with the relations between nations and hence in no sense brings up the spectre of war." It is an internal crisis that is wracking the various nations "separately, not their political lives, but their economic and social organizations. It is preeminently social. I am confident that the nations will solve it, but to do so all the people of Europe must use all their energy and must be prepared to make every sacrifice in the cause of peace and stability."Premier Mussolini received the correspondent in his lofty, cellingoffice in the Chigi palace. He first engaged in a light, friendly conversation, the tenor of which may be illustrated by the fact that the premier constantly shifted from Italian, French, German and English, all of which he spoke with marked fluency.
When he began to speak of the present European situation, however, a transformation came. He strained forward in his high-backed chair behind a massive table, his eyes blazing with fervor and his right hand punctuating with sharp gestures his short incisive sentences.LAUDS FASCISM Asked whether he considered fascism a pioneer political movement which might be copied by other nations as a solution of their difficulties, he gave an eloquent outline of the philosophy of the movement which he is leading. Italy, he said, is creating
"a new type of state." Among striking sentences in his exposition were the following:
"Liberty or death was a fine
phrase, but cooperation or poverty is
more accurate now."
"Fascism replaces individual sovereignty by state sovereignty, the nation for the individual."
"Even the most ardent defenders
of the Liberal-Democratic movement
cannot be so blind as not to see its decay."Fascism, he thinks, has given an example to the world by solving two of the major governmental problems of the modern world, namely, the restoration of the authority of the state and the elimination of internal social struggles. Italy is creating
"a new type of state." Among striking sentences in his exposition were the following:
"Liberty or death was a fine
phrase, but cooperation or poverty is
more accurate now."
"Fascism replaces individual sovereignty by state sovereignty, the
nation for the individual."
"Even the most ardent defenders
of the Liberal-Democratic movement
cannot be so blind as not to see its
decay."ITALY MARCHING ON
"Italy alone among the great nations of Europe is not torn by wasteful and dangerous political crisis or by financial reverses."

WATCHING

BENITO MUSSOLINI

Italy's fiery leader, after watching and studying conditions in Europe, has given in interview to the Associated Press describing conditions "on the continent. The premier has no fear of war, but believes that internal and economic struggles are the biggest problems which European countries have to deal with."CHICAGO CAFE

Lead from Shadows of Police StationChicago—(AP)—From the shadows of his own cafe, four blocks from a police station, booze gangsters or Vendetta slayers late Thursday night poured out a hall of lead that took the life of Philip Piazza, wealthy owner of two roadhouses in Chicago Heights, a suburb.
The killers, believed to have been four or more, were in an automobile and after firing a fusillade into the body of the cafe owner, who may have been marked for death as the result of two other slayings in the suburb, they disappeared in the darkness.
Piazza was known to the police as the ruler of the underworld in Chicago Heights; and was reputed to be the payoff man for scores of alcohol cookers. It was in one of his cafes that prohibition agents several months ago discovered one of the largest stillies on record, at the same time seizing 10,000 gallons of alcohol and 1,000 gallons of wine. An audit of his books showed that he had an organization of several hundred men on weekly salaries.TARKINGTON RECOVERS
FROM REAL ADVENTUREKennebunkport, Maine—(AP)—Booth
Tarkington, author, was recovering
Friday from an adventure as exciting as any that have delighted the readers of "Penrod" or "seventeen." When his motorboat caught fire ten miles off the coast Thursday night, the Indiana author was successfully burned by the flames, swept to sea before a hurricane gale and then, as in all good story books, rescued in the nick of time.Two companions shared the novelist's plight, Harry Thirkell of this place and a Miss Trotter of Philadelphia.
According to the story told at the Tarkington house Friday, the Zanu, Tarkington's motorboat, was crippled by fire before he succeeded in extinguishing the flames. He suffered slight burns.
A few minutes later the storm
which had been sweeping east struck Kennebunkport and then raced out over the ocean where it kicked up a formidable sea. The Zanu drifted before the gale but help was near just as the predicament of the three seemed particularly dangerous.EMERY WILL RETURN TO FORT ATKINSON SCHOOLMadison—(AP)—J. Q. Emery, former teacher and for the past 18 years
state dairy and food commissioner, will return to his former school at Fort Atkinson on Sept. 1, to teach in the high school and act as superintendent of the junior high school, he said Friday. He recently announced he would resign from the dairy and food commission in order to obtain the benefits of the teachers' pension fund the move being brought about by financial reverses.LABOR DRAWS PLANS FOR NEW LAW CAMPAIGNFavors Compulsory Liability
Insurance for Automobile OwnersGreen Bay—(AP)—Organized labor formulated its plans for the 1927 campaign for new state laws in a stormy session Thursday of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor.Working two hours overtime to permit the windup of the sessions Friday, the delegates played havoc with the report of the legislative committee, garding several proposals, including criticism of Governor Blaine's administration seeking legislation barring women and children from the metal polishing trade.Several proposals for legislation were sidetracked by reference to the state executive board for "investigation," and when the session closed, few suggestions for new laws had received approval of the convention.
Several more were to be considered Friday.As a result of favorable action, the federation will seek the enactment into law by the next session of the legislature of proposals for compulsory liability insurance for automobile owners, confining manufacture of prison made goods, requirements of state institutions, and improved working conditions for motion picture operators.
The federation decided to take the initiative in the calling of a statewide crime and penal conference. The convention endorsed the executive committee to develop the plans, asserting "retardation of all human advancement is threatened unless sane and practical methods are found for dealing with crime and administering the law enforcement machinery."Consideration of the resolution criticizing the state progressive organization for awarding the contract for addition to the state fair grandstand brought the first demonstration of the convention.WOULD SCORE BLAINE
A resolution introduced by Milwaukee carpenters and reported for adoption by the legislative committee asserted in part that "attention of the delegates is called to the fact that the attitude of Governor Blaine and the so-called progressive administration is not as friendly toward organized labor as they would like to make believe."Congressman George J. Schneider, sitting in the convention as a delegate of the paper and pulp union, cri-tiqued as "unfair" the allusion to the attitude of the administration. He declared the administration was powerless to do otherwise than follow the provisions of the law which requires awarding of contracts to the lowest bidder.The resolution was sent back to the committee for revamping after demands were made by several to eliminate reference to Governor Blaine.
President Henry Ohl Jr., said the federation would be "inconsistent" if it

Douglas Fairbanks left for Warsaw
Thursday afternoon after having received for two days the greatest popular ovations ever given foreigners in Soviet Russia.Even the death and funeral of Felix E. Dzerzhinsky, chairman of the supreme council of national economy, did not seem to cool the ardor of Russia's numerous movie fans who greeted the American guests overwhelmed them. The silver screen stars had little rest during their two nights stay in Moscow. "Doug" enjoyed things immensely but the strain was too much for Mary, resulting in a case of complete nervous exhaustion.Before boarding his private car,
which was attached to the Warsaw

Kramin, where he was received by Mme. Kamenova, wife of vice president Kamenova of the council of lic here Friday by Captain W. H.

formed Captain Stanton that almost any liquor except beer could

Hospital in Tragic Traffic
AccidentNyack, N. Y.—(AP)—Ten women and children out of 48 who sought to escape the heat of New York City in a bus excursion Thursday, are dead. The driver of the bus which overturned was held Friday in the New York City, N. Y., jail.
Three other passengers were on the danger list at the Nyack hospital. No passengers escaped injury.
Twenty-four were in hospitals Friday, the rest were sent home after treatment.The passengers were returning to their homes in Brooklyn after spending the day in Bear Mountain Park.
Witnesses said the bus, driven by Daniel J. Lauro, was not speeding prior to the accident. The machine bumped over a crossing in the heart of Sparkhill, N. Y., and 15 feet east of the crossing swerved, then started rolling down a slight incline. Witnesses saw Lauro working frantically with his levers and heard the frightened screams of the women and children as the machine gathered momentum. The brakes refused to hold and when the machine reached the bottom of the incline and crashed against a store window, it rolled over.Every available conveyance was used to take the injured to the hospital. The first to appear was a lumbering ice wagon.
The dead are: Mrs. Catherine
Barth, Mrs. Margaret Reiser, May Reiser, 12; Mrs. Englehard, Mrs.
Henry C. Schultz, Catherine Albert,

ified women.DEMOCRATS NAME CADY

following a vacancy left in the Demo-

END CONFLICTRetirement of Telephone Company from Broadcast-

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Retirement of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company from the radio broadcasting business, leaving the field to the Radio Corporation of America, as just announced, was regarded here as inevitable ever since congress at its last session began to exhibit an interest in controlling and regulating the use of broadcasting stations.The struggle between these two giant companies for first place in the hearts of the radio fans has led to expenditure of vast sums of money which from the viewpoint of the telephone company could only mean an investment in good-will without any of the direct benefits which accrue to a company which has radio sets to sell and broadcasting stations to build.Here and there local telephone companies have found public utility commissions inquisitive about expenditures for broadcasting, it being contended that for such expenses the telephone rates might be reduced in view of increased use. The wide field of federal regulation is one which the telephone business has not been any too anxious to see developed any more than it is today. Had the American Telephone and Telegraph company
continued in the broadcasting business, the movement to establish a federal commission to supervise telephones, telegraphs and radio might have made some headway.DIFFERENT OBJECTIVE
The American Telephone and Telegraph company in its announcement points out that while technically the principle might be the same the objective of a broadcasting station is different from that of a telephone system. In other words, radio broadcasting did not help the telephone business particularly and the amount of profit built up here and there by free broadcasting was perhaps not comparable to the good-will that might be accomplished by expenditures in other directions more closely akin to the telephone business.As for the Radio Corporation of America, it has been developing its patents and the time has been approaching when it could have gone into the telephone business on a moderate scale. The use of the radio telephone at sea has been perfected. The establishment of a few stations to do a commercial telephone business between big centers has been talked of as a possibility. All this meant more competition between the radio and the telephone company.The new move is interpreted here as meaning that the Radio Corporation of America will keep out of the telephone business and the American Telephone and Telegraph company in turn will keep out of the broadcasting business. The two concerns have always been friendly and the decision not to duplicate effort is in line with the principles that have in recent years prompted mergers and consolidations.Capital Times Splits With

The denunciation of Gov. Blaine in the editorial columns of the Cap-greatest political sensations in a decade, in view of the fact that Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr., isnow stumping the state in behalf of the candidacy of Gov. Blaine for the senate.The Times declares emphatically that it has never supported and never will support Gov. Blaine, and the attack on Blaine marks the first open split between the newspaper founded as a La Follette progressive publication and the present political heirs of the late Senator La Follette.

The attack by the editor of the Capital Times, upon Gov. Blaine is another of the long series which prominent progressives throughout Wisconsin have made upon Blaine's candidacy for senator.
The onslaught of Editor Ryjue upon

close personal friend of the La Follette intimate friendship of the late Sen-

it was necessary to have unity and all parties would be represented, without taking account too closely of the representation of groups. We tried to fulfill our task in the most high minded spirit possible."He added that he had found no difficulty in his path, because he insisted upon forming the cabinet without regard to personal preferences.

He is holding an informal cabinet

NOVEL PLEA TO JUDGE FAILS TO PREVENT FINE

Long Service Exempted
Him from Payment

Because he had been coming to Appleton for 26 years and because it was his first offense, L. A. Miller of Marshfield, thought that he shouldn't be obliged to pay the usual fine for failure to stop for an arterial sign at the corner of N. Oneida-st and Wisconsin-ave. Judge Theodore Berg didn't agree with him Friday morning in municipal court, and Miller paid a fine of $1 and costs of $3.20. Miller was arrested by a motorcycle officer shortly before he appeared in court. William Emmel, 112 Oak-st, Neenah, pleaded guilty of failure to stop for an arterial at the corner of N. Union and E. North-sts, and also paid a fine of $1 and costs Friday morning. He was arrested late Thursday afternoon.

E. W. Kruse, 3950 N. Ashland-ave, Chicago, charged with driving an automobile without a Wisconsin license, was dismissed Friday morning by Judge Berg, who explained that an Illinois resident is not required to have a Wisconsin license. If the word "Wisconsin" had not been inserted in the warrant, a fine might have been imposed, as police declare that when Kruse was arrested at 9 o'clock Friday morning his automobile had no license plate. Kruse declared he had purchased the automobile recently, but had lost the postoffice receipt which showed that he had applied for a license.

ANOTHER DECREASE IN FACTORY EMPLOYMENT

Madison, Wis.—Factory employment in Wisconsin decreased again in June, for the fourth consecutive month, the state industrial commission finds.

The commission's report is based upon data received from more than nine hundred employers. The decrease in factory employment in June was four tenths of one percent.

The decline in the number of workers in various industries was: Metal working, 2.6 percent; wood working, 2 per cent. On the other hand, increases were noted as follows: Building construction 11.2 percent; highway construction 21.9 percent; railroad construction 26.2 percent; automobile trade 4 per cent; rubber factories 1.5 percent and paper making 3.6 percent. Workers in food products increased 7 per cent, due chiefly to the canning and preserving activity.

There is less employment than a year ago, the commission reports.

A report on the reunion of the Rainbow Veterans division, which was held last week in New York City, was made by Lothar Graef at the monthly meeting of the Rainbow Veterans association Monday evening at the armory. Mr. Graef was the only veteran of this vicinity who attended the reunion. Copies of the Reveille, monthly publication of the Rainbow veterans, will be distributed at the meeting, which is to begin at 8 o'clock.

Evjue Splits With LaFollette

very close friend of Atty. Gen. Herman L. Ekern, who is a candidate on the Blaine ticket for governor, and many of Mr. Evjue's closest associates are warm friends of Mr. Ekern.

The beginning of the open progressive resentment against Gov. Blaine dates back to the time of the death of Senator La Follette Sr. last year. Many progressives believed that Blaine was about to announce himself a candidate for the vacancy, and a series of conferences were held with the intention of inducing a member of the La Follette family to make the race and head off the candidacy of Blaine for the senate.

Petitions were circulated by prominent progressive members of the legislature asking Mrs. Belle Case La Follette to make the race in such prominent progressive as Senator C. B. Casperson of Frederic, Assemblyman William Olson of Monroe, Senator Herman J. Severson of Iowa, and Senator John C. Schuman of Watertown, were active at that time in the circulation of petitions.

Some time later it was announced that Robert M. La Follette Jr. would be a candidate to succeed his father in the senate. The anti-Blaine progressives had been successful, as Gov. Blaine could not become a candidate against the son of Senator La Follette without committing political suicide.

A short time later the so-called secret treaty was entered into by young La Follette, Blaine and Ekern. Under the terms of this agreement, Blaine and Ekern were to support La Follette for the senate in 1925. La Follette and Blaine were to support Ekern for governor and La Follette and Ekern were to support Blaine for United States senator in the present campaign.

OFFENDS MRS. LA FOLLETTE.

Some time later Gov. Blaine offended Mrs. Belle Case La Follette deeply by appointing Assemblyman George W. Meggers of Waupesa, state treasurer in place of Clinton B. Ballard of Appleton. Mr. Ballard had lived for four years at the La Follette farm in Madison and was extremely close to the late Senator La Follette. Some time ago Mr. Ballard paid his respects to the governor by becoming a progressive anti-slate candidate for state treasurer.

The La Follette family ostensibly ignored the Ballard incident, but it grieved them deeply in view of the fact that Mr. Ballard was so close to the late Senator La Follette.

Some time later Senator C. B. Casperson of Frederic issued a statement supporting Fred R. Zimmerman for United States senator as a progressive candidate in opposition to Gov. Blaine. But Mr. Zimmerman became a candidate for governor and made a series of intense assaults upon the governor.

G. M. Sheldon of Tomahawk threw his hat into the ring as a progressive candidate for attorney-general, with a direct and emphatic attack upon the slate makers.

Assemblyman Clinton G. Price of Madison, the Blaine floor leader in the 1925 session of the legislature, who received the cold shoulder from the governor when he desired to become the progressive candidate for attorney-general has filed nomination papers in the Thirty-first senatorial district as a candidate for the senate against Senator Howard Teasdale of Sparta, president, pro tem of the senate.

The treatment which Mr. Price received from the governor, after sponsoring all his legislation on the floor of the assembly increased the resentment of the progressives against Blaine.

Another one of Blaine's close allies, W. Stanley Smith, was progressive candidate for governor recently turned upon Gov. Blaine and in emphatic terms assailed the governor for refusing to debate the world court with Senator Lenroot and for endorsing Herman Ekern as a "bone dry" candidate for governor.

Mr. Smith's attack on the governor was a political sensation as he had

Avoid Poorly Balanced Breakfasts

That's Where the Great
Dietary Mistake is Made

If you feel tired, hungry, and "fuzzy" hours before lunch, don't jump to the conclusion of poor health. Thousands have unenergetic mornings because they start the day with wrong breakfasts.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

GOLFER SHOWS BLACK EYE AS GAME'S HAZARD

"Fore" rang out over the fairways of Butte des Morts Golf club Thursday afternoon, and everybody ducked but Dr. W. E. O'Keefe. Doc is doing his ducking Friday in an effort to avoid the wise cracks hurled at his "beautiful shiner" as Doc's black eye was described.

Dr. O'Keefe was playing in the tournament and the ball hit him squarely in the eye. A dark purplish ring encircled the eye ball Friday morning. It is said Doc has tried everything from beefsteak to nice damp mud to bring back his natural color but "no sale" so far.

The Post-Crescent's woman page editor advises Doc to try a witch-hazel pack. She says it is just the thing.

A Washer You'll Be Proud to Own

Unquestionably one of the best washers available today. It is fast. It is nearly mechanically perfect and foolproof as it is possible to make a washer. It is simple and safe in operation. Not a moving part exposed. Compact, too. Occupies only 24 inches of floor space. Will easily move through a 24-inch door. Still it does as much work as the average washer.

As for the quality of washing, you've never seen anything like it. Clothes turn out snowy white—beautifully done. A mighty good looking washer, too, in its handsome soft French gray enamel finish. A washer you would indeed be proud to own.

2 PEOPLE HURT AS AUTOMOBILE BURNS IN DTICH

Mrs. Stewart F. Leuchars
Suffers Broken Collarbone
in Accident

Two persons were injured, one quite seriously, and a new automobile was totally destroyed by fire about 5:30 Thursday afternoon when the car turned over in a ditch near Mud creek, between Kaukauna and De Pere. Mr. Stewart F. Leuchars, 1409 W. Atlantic-st., suffered a broken collar bone and numerous cuts and bruises, and her husband was badly cut about the head. Sergeant James Moore of the Appleton police force, the third member of the party, escaped injury.

Mr. Leuchars said Friday morning he was returning from Green Bay when he was forced off the highway by a car bearing a Michigan license. His car became unmanageable in the gravel shoulder of the concrete road and plunged into the ditch, turning over twice. The machine started to burn at once and the passengers were rescued with considerable difficulty by persons in other cars. The Michigan driver did not stop after the accident, Mr. Leuchars said.

The three passengers were taken to a physician at DePere and returned to Appleton about 9:30. Mr. Leuchars said he purchased the car only two or three months ago. It was a total wreck after the fire.

UNLAWFUL TO BAR ROADS TO BADGER LAKES

Madison—(AP)—Owners of land around Wisconsin lakes are prevented by law from closing highways leading to the lakes or from barring public fishing on the waters, the attorney general's department ruled today.

Roads leading to Chicken Foot and Chicken Crop lakes in Oconto county have been used by the public for 25 to 35 years, District Attorney John B. Chase said. A resident of Illinois has purchased all of the land around the lakes, he said, and has ordered everybody to take their boats off the lake and will not permit fishing by the public.

A highway may be established in this state by twenty years use by the public, J. F. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, held. The public is entitled to fish on lakes provided they can get onto the lakes without trespassing on private land, it was added, and the riparian owners of lands around a lake cannot stop the people from putting boats on the lakes and fishing in it, provided they reach the water by way of roads lawfully laid out.

Association Offers Reward
After Two Fanciers Lose
Chickens

A reward of $50 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of poultry thieves in Outagamie-co is being offered by the Fox River Poultry and Pet Stock association. This action was taken Thursday, following two thefts Wednesday evening in which William Wilhams lost 40 chickens and John Schwalbach lost 30 chickens. Both farmers live on the School Section road, route 3, Appleton.

George Loos, president of the association, learned of the thefts while he was visiting farmers in the vicinity, and the reward was offered. The reward will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the thief or thieves who took the chickens Wednesday evening, or for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any other poultry thief in this vicinity.

"The Fox River Poultry and Pet Stock association is determined to do everything in its power to stop theft of poultry in this county," declared George Lausman, vice president of the association Friday morning. "Farmers who report thefts of poultry may depend on our cooperation in finding the thief. We are greatly interested in the matter."

MEN TEACHERS VANISHING

In the last twenty-five years the schools of the United States suffered an amazing decrease in the proportion of men teachers. In 1880, 43 per cent of the public school teachers in the United States were men; in 1890, 35 per cent; in 1900, 30 per cent; in 1910, 21 per cent, and in 1924, 17 per cent. While secondary schools have suffered the greatest percentage of loss, many higher institutions of learning are finding it difficult to retain their best qualified professors.

It may be admitted without argument that women are fitted by nature to handle young children of both sexes with more understanding, patience and general effectiveness than men because of and due to her mother instinct, but in subsequent stages of development the situation is greatly altered. There is then the need that these impressive personalities, in their formative years, come in contact with strong types of men teachers. In fact, many of the European countries consider it of so vital importance that a family allowance system for men teachers is in operation.

The cause of the abandonment of the teaching profession by men is only too obvious. Men of the calibre who make desirable teachers can earn far more in so many other lines of work, that the wonder is not that so many are deserting teaching, but that so many are still faithful to a profession that pays them so poorly. In order to follow a calling that is worthy of the best, men must make a sacrifice that society has no right to expect or accept from them.

Men are a highly necessary element in the education of the young, and the rapid disappearance of them as teachers is a matter of serious consequence.

SELF-SUPPORTING STUDENTS

A survey of the self-supporting student situation at Yale university has provided some interesting material. Young men working their way through Yale number 35 per cent of the student body, but they took 45 per cent of the honors and prizes and in some courses 80 per cent of the honors. Seven of the 13 senior honors were taken by self-supporting students. Three out of five working students were graduated with highest honors from the Sheffield Scientific school.

These facts would seem to indicate either that it is an advantage, rather than a disadvantage, to work one's way through college, or that those who lack means have a compensating share of brains. What they really indicate is that the student desiring education enough to work for it takes his college work more seriously, puts more into it and gets more out of it, and is, therefore, from an educational standpoint, a greater credit to his college and to himself.

THE LIVING VOICE

One of the wonders of the phonograph and motion pictures is that the person speaking or acting may thus be brought before the public long after they themselves have passed on. An unusual example of this is presented in a Fourth of July radio program in which the voices of three Presidents of the United States, now dead were put upon the air. Theodore Roosevelt delivered an address on "The Farmer and the Business Man," Woodrow Wilson gave his "Address to the Farmer" and Warren G. Harding again gave to a triumphant but sorrowing world his address at Hoboken on the return for burial of 5212 American soldiers, marines and nurses, victims of the World War. Many picture houses throughout the land threw upon the screen the animated images of these and other departed statesmen, heroes and patriots.

The "touch of a vanished hand" is all but possible, and "the sound of a voice that is still" strikes the heart with a strange realization of the mysteries that man has penetrated and a premonition of those others he will yet penetrate.

Through these devices there is saved, for future generations, a vision of great people and the sound of their voices in their greatest moments. Great events may march across the screen a hundred years after they have occurred. This is an invaluable heritage and those who are making every effort to preserve these records are doing a public work of great value.

IMPROVED ROADS

During 1925 nearly 18,000 miles of roads in the various states were surfaced. The present system of expansion aims at making all through routes and main thoroughfares permanent and every point of importance directly accessible. These permanent roads, beside their greater comfort and safety, have had a direct influence upon real estate values and the market prices of numerous products, thus benefitting practically everyone, regardless of station and occupation.

In fact, the cost of improved roads is more than repaid to the public in these increased real estate values alone. Communities are short-sighted when they demur at the item of expense. Prosperity and increased value always follow permanently paved highways.

SCHOOL SAVINGS

Just how successful the educational program of the American Society for Thrift has been may be judged from the fact that there is at present on deposit with school savings banks in this country $30,000,000. The idea of teaching thrift in the schools was developed at the International Congress for Thrift held in connection with the Panama Pacific exposition in San Francisco in 1915 and has gradually expanded until in the last year more than 8,000,000 boys and girls received instruction in thrift, with the gratifying results already mentioned.

The importance of this movement cannot be over-estimated. If children can be interested in the impressive years of their lives and trained to thrift, learning the advantages of saving and the attendant banking usages of deposit and withdrawal, thrifty habits may be formed that will benefit them all through their lives. School savings banks may redeem this nation from its tendency to carelessness and wastefulness in money matters. The movement should be expanded until every school has such a department.

I must admit it's a bit, and has a snappy tone, but who the deuce, long since, turned loose the bloomin' saxophone?

I'm nearly wild. My neighbor's child each evening takes a lesson. He toots away and tries to play and has us all a guessin'.

The notes are sour, as hour by hour, his practice session's hurried. He stops on time, but it's a crime. The neighbors all are worried.

It's not because he always does the thing he shouldn't do. He blows in right, but every night, it's wrong when it comes through.

At times he'll strike a tune ya like. You thrill a bit, and then, he swines about and what comes out is something else again.

I really yearn to have him learn just one song, all his own. With that fair trick I wouldn't kick about his saxophone.

PRELIMINARY STAGE OF HEART DISEASE

Chronic myocarditis is impairment of the efficiency of the heart muscle from degenerative changes in the muscle tissue. This term, myocarditis, means literally inflammation of the heart muscle but it is not what the layman ordinarily understands as inflammation. It is rather degeneration—the muscle cells or fibers are gradually broken down and replaced by fibrous or scar tissue which of course, can do no work. This process constitutes slow heart muscle failure.

With a desire to warn folks, not to scare 'em, I would say here at the take off that when a heart is in any way embarrassed by "gas pressure," that heart is sick, and this being a sick lowering day, I'll add this: In every case of "acute indigestion" somebody is being deceived. Often it is just the newspaper reader; sometimes it is the patient; occasionally it is the doctor. But "acute indigestion" simply doesn't happen in reality. In a good many cases in which "acute indigestion" conceals the facts, the trouble is myocarditis.

For years before the chronic myocarditis patient comes under medical care there are definite signs of heart impairment which the victim deliberately elects to ignore, or perhaps he ascribes his condition to his age, or to overwork or nervousness. People who are not quite so well as they should be, indulging too freely in this purblind practice of self-soothing, giving their ailments pleasant but meaningless names and "trying" this and that method of treatment which purports to be good for just such vague troubles.

At present dietary meddling is the favorite sport of the valetudinary population. It is refreshing to meet a person who is not in perfect health yet entertains no freak notion or funny fad about diet. Probably there is more downright foolishness about food and diet marketed to the American public today than any other line of hokum. One of the fool notions is that a person with any manifestation of cardiovascular disease—heart muscle failure, hardening of the arteries, chronic Bright's disease—shouldn't eat meat. Akin to this popular obsession is one which turns up several times daily in my correspondence with readers—the fancy that albumin in the urine comes from eating albuminous foods such as lean meat or white of eggs or from eating too much of such foods. There is no ground for these notions. If food is a factor of cardiovascular disease or any of its manifestations in heart, arteries or kidneys, or if overeating is at all to blame for these troubles, there is more reason to place the blame on the carbohydrates—foods consisting mainly of starch or sugar—for nearly all overeating is a matter of gorgeing on carbohydrates.

Dr. S. C. Smith mentions five symptoms, one or more of which should warrant a careful periodic health examination for the recognition of any beginning of chronic myocarditis or slow heart muscle failure: (1) Shortness of breath, (2) heart hurry, (3) chest oppression, (4) chest pain, and (5) physical fatigue—all arising upon moderate or accustomed effort.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
One Every Minute

Kindly advise if the juice of a lemon night and morning is injurious for one who has rheumatism. I have a little pain with mine, more of a lameness and stiffness in the muscles, I imagine. I have never consulted a physician—in fact I haven't much faith in the average doctor for rheumatism. The people claim rheumatism is a germ and not an acid condition of the blood. —has helped a good many but did no good for my case. —(H. A. J.)

Answer—Your case reminds me of that of the mule. He hadn't much faith in the veterinary physician, yet the veterinary cured him. Your credulity is what hampers you. It is probable the lemon juice will do no harm. Rheumatism is just a soothing name to apply to any inability when you don't know or don't care to find out what is the matter. Sometimes it is merely an alibi—it explains why folks won't work. The nostrum people are quite safe in saying "rheumatism is not an acid condition of the blood." In the first place there is no such state as an acid condition of the blood. They might as well claim, that for bearing alligators never roost in ham trees.

At least she said this morning "Well I can move out of my suitcase, where I've been living the past six weeks into my trunk, which has finally arrived."

A college graduate is one who can count up to twenty without taking his shoes off.

Boy—"An automobile."

Why do we call it a shipment when it goes into a car and a cargo when it goes in a ship?

Helen had been brought up in a Congregational minister's family, and had always attended her father's church. When the family happened to be visiting relatives who were Episcopalians, the subject of going to church came up during the conversation at the dinner table, Saturday night, and the family was invited to attend the Episcopal church. Helen begged her father to accept, but he replied that he guessed they had better go to their own church. "Oh, Papa," said the little girl, "if you'll only let me go, I'll promise not to believe one word they say."—Harpers Magazine.

Adventures In The Library

SCIENTISTS WHO WERE ARTISTS

Perhaps the most valuable service that Paul De Kruif, author of "Microbe Hunters," has done for the general reader is to show that nearly every great scientist who has figured in the history of microbe hunting was almost as much of an artist as a scientist. In fact, the impression left by the book that it was an artist in these men that was as much responsible for their success as the scientist. They saw scientific vision and dreamed scientific dreams and then the scientist stepped in and made those visions and dreams realities by the cold and hard processes that are needed in scientific research. But if they had not been poets first they would have had nothing to work on as scientists in most cases and the cures and preventatives for the great scourges would still be unknown.

ARTIST MUST FIGHT

And another queer fact is brought out by the book. In very many cases the personal history of the great scientists is almost identical with the personal history of the great artists. Taken in broad outline, the great artist usually has to fight for his right to be a great artist. In childhood there is the opposition of parents and other grownups who want to turn him into a safe and sane channel. In nine cases out of ten you will read of a great writer that his father wanted him to be a lawyer or some other professional or business man. The future artist has to fight against this. And he has to fight against ridicule and all the sorts of opposition until the time when he actually begins to make money of his art. Then he is taken seriously. Often he has to do his real work almost on the sly and hide it from his family and friends. He has to earn his bread and butter in the accepted ways. Often those of his own household are the greatest enemies of himself as an artist.

And De Kruif tells identically the same story about the great scientist. They had to battle against opposition of parents, of friends, of wives and other relatives often. At times the whole massed influence of the medical profession of the whole world was ranged against the single man who was destined to revolutionize medical practice in regard to some great disease. It took great courage to stick to his dream in the face and rejection, opposition, and it was the visionary, the scientist, the poet, the artist, the furnished the fuel that made him stick it out.

Robert Koch is a good illustration. In one respect there was no man less of a poet than Koch. He was as cold a scientist as the world has produced and he despised the people who substituted guesses and dream for actual experiments. But early in his professional life he became obsessed with a dream of exploring the sub-visible world of germs. In essentials it was as stupendous a dream as Shakespeare or Homer ever had. Essentially it was the conception of a great poet who used a test tube instead of a pen.

LAUGHED AT KOCH

He was laughed at by doctors and professors but he stuck to his dream. He had to make a living as a country doctor but he neglected it—exactly as great writers have often neglected their bread and butter profession to have time to write. His wife was all for playing safe and she nagged Koch to attend to his practice. He had a very unhappy time of it. There was the same bitter conflict between the artistic and the economic life that there always is. But he stuck to his dream in poverty and against ridicule and he did more for the human race than all the other doctors of his generation combined. Today he is honored. Just as an artist is honored after he has succeeded, but during the time when he was doing his real work he was despised and rejected.

And that is the story of nearly every scientist in the book, just as it is the story of many artists. There are variations, but the essential elements in the story are almost always alike. Many of the greatest achievements in the history of the world have to be done almost on the sly. Usually the world hasn't the imagination to visualize great achievements until they have been attained. Then they look easy.

Nude Tones Are Favored For Summer

Nude effects in color rule throughout the entire list of feminine apparel. Stockings are nude, shoes are nude, frocks, hats and wraps are nude. Gloves, handbags, undergarments, laces and furs are nude. One can't be dressed off-color if one is dressed in nude tones. For smart sports wear, nude colors are those most popular with women of taste. For afternoon wear, the frock of nude chiffon or lace is considered far smarter than the flowered chiffon or the colorful frock. And even for evening occasions we find that the various so-called nude shades are those most sought after by the fashionably dressed.

Nude shades range from pale tans, rose tans, beige, pastel yellows, flesh pinks etc., to actual nude shades which tone perfectly with the color of the flesh. They are particularly becoming to blonds in the lighter shadings. Brunettes find that rose nude tones are best suited to their coloring.

Recently introduced are felt hats of nude shades and these are becoming to the majority of women. Where the frock is of a vivid shade, the trimming, such as collars, cuffs, buttons and piping, is often carried out in tan or nude tones. Gloves, handbags and accessories are often loved in these soft tones since they correspond with hosiery and shoes and aid in carrying out a harmonizing color effect.

Of course, no one insists upon a monotone nude effect, for that would soon become monotonous. There must always be some bright shade added as a high light for the nude ensemble. Perhaps, it is a handkerchief, corsage, or a scarf! Red is one of the corsage colors which harmonizes with nude tones and we find a great deal of red used on nude sweaters, ensembles, jumper frocks and hats.

MORNING MEAL SHOULD BE MOST CHEERFUL

Poached eggs on golden brown toast, crisp slices of bacon, fresh fruit and coffee is a good enough breakfast, you will say, without any further embellishments. But have you ever noticed how these foods tempt the lagging appetite if they are dressed up a little bit?

New and dainty breakfast cloths that may be as imaginative as you wish will do the work beautifully. Of course in choosing this important item in the household furnishings one must carefully consider the color of the walls, curtains and floor covering of the breakfast room. Some of the new and smart combinations of color are brilliant yellow or green striped in black, medium blue with daffodil yellow stripes or cloths with a white background and the stripes which from the plaided effect in bright colors to blend well with the China used.

These gaily colored and intriguing breakfast table cloths may be made at home of dress linen or dish towel with little expense and time. The edges of the cloth and the napkins as well, are simply fringed. If the dish toweling or other narrow material is chosen, one width is used for the center, a second piece is cut in two and each half joined to the center width by fagotting.

AIRTIGHT COVERING
Before putting fish or cheese into the ice box, it is a good idea to wrap them in oiled paper which not only keeps them from drying out, but prevents the spread of their particular odor.

When making ice cream that has a custard foundation, it is advisable to mix the flour with the sugar and cook thoroughly with the milk before adding the eggs.

DALE WANTS NEW HIGHWAY SOUTH TO COUNTY LINE

Merchants Tell Highway Commission They Will Help Pay Cost

About thirty-five Dale businessmen attended the inspection trip of the Outagamie-co Highway commission which was made Wednesday afternoon to decide upon the necessity of the proposed road south of the village of Dale. The road will connect state trunk highways 26 and 95, the latter in Winnebago-co. and will be a continuation of the present road which runs from highway 26, near the Horton town hall, to the village of Dale. A 1 1/2-mile stretch south of Dale to the county line still remains to be completed in Outagamie-co. It is expected that Winnebago-co will continue the proposed road to form a junction with highway 95, about a quarter mile west of Winchester. The total length of the road, including the six miles between highway 26 and Dale, will be nine miles.

Dale businessmen are generally agreed that the road is an absolute necessity, and have offered to raise $500 by subscription to help the county finance it. Members of the highway committee expressed their pleasure with the attitude of Dale and the surrounding community, and the unity of purpose displayed in the matter. Indications are that definite action toward building the road will be taken within a short time.

Marriage Age Shows Little Change As Years Go By

"How does the average age in which people get married these days compare with the 'good old days' before the war when neither tresses nor dresses were bobbed? Doesn't the average young couple of nowadays shun the responsibilities of marriage? These and a myriad other questions enter every typical debate in which the question is 'Resolved that the world is going to the dogs; and what are we coming to?'"

If figures of comparative ages in which persons were married in 1914 and 1925 are any criterion, the answer in most cases is "not so you could notice it." The American home is not sinking gradually into oblivion and its sanctity is not being destroyed by by but, figures on file at the courthouse indicate.

In 1914 the average age of applicants for marriage licenses, counting both men and women, was just a trifle less than 26 years. In 1925 it was 25 1/2 years, almost to the dot. Women who approached the window of the county clerk in 1914, marriage-bound, were 25 years old, on an average, while their prospective bridegrooms were 27 1/2 years old. In 1925 the average age of the bride-to-be was 24 years—or one year younger than her older sister, who approached the altar a decade ago. The men, too, were slightly younger as his age in 1925 averaged 27 1/2 years.

From 19 to 25 years were the ages of most women who made applications for marriage licenses in 1914, while in 1925 most applications were made by women between 18 and 25 years. The periods during which most men were married in 1914 and 1925 were practically the same, between 21 and 30 years.

In 1914 the favorite age for women was 19 years when 47 applied for licenses, although 20 and 21 were close second and third, with 43 and 37 applications, respectively. In 1925 exactly 50 women of 21 years made applications, 49 were 21 years old, and 37 were 19 years old.

In 1914 applications for licenses were made by 44 men who were 23 years old, 38 who were 25 years old, and 37 who were 24 years old.

Fifty-three men, 22 years old, applied for licenses in 1925, thirty-nine were 23 years old, and thirty-three were 24 years old.

One 15-year-old girl, four of 18 years, eleven of 17 years, and seventeen of 18 years made applications in 1924. In 1925 there was one 16-year-old girl, eighteen of 17 years, and twenty-four of 18 years who applied for marriage licenses.

In 1925 there was one 17-year-old boy, five 18-year-old boys, and seven of 19 years; compared with one 18-year-old boy in 1914 and six of 13 years.

The oldest applicants in 1914 were a 68-year-old man and a 63-year-old woman. In 1925 a 72-year-old man married a woman of 45. Eight men and eight women of 50 years or over applied for licenses in 1914, while ten men and seven women made applications in 1925.

If the men and women who applied for marriage licenses in 1925 had lived consecutively instead of concurrently, the first of them would have lived before the earliest recorded history of mankind. The combined ages of the men would be 10,865 years, while that of the women would be 9,547 years. In 1914 the total age of the men was 9,578 years and of the women, 8,833 years.

STUDY SHEBOYGAN'S TRUANT RECORD SYSTEM

J. G. Pfeil, truant officer, spent a day in Sheboygan examining the system for checking school attendance and keeping records which is in use in that city. Mr. Pfeil probably will use some of the methods in his work here. Early in spring B. J. Rohan, superintendent of school, Miss Carrie Morgan, assistant superintendent of schools and several members of the school board went to Sheboygan to study the system used in school administration with a view of adopting a similar plan or some of its best features.

VICTIM OF NERVOUS BREAKDOWN REGAINS HEALTH BY TAKING DRECO

Declares she is now free of nervous indigestion, blood has been purified, headaches overcome, and she is very much stronger.

Free Samples New Herbal Remedy, Given By Dreco Man at Schlitz Bros. Downtown Drug Store

It is strange that people will disregard the early symptoms of stomach trouble and wait until they are down sick and unable to attend to their duties. Stomach trouble leads to a long train of other disorders. The liver, bowels and nerves are so closely allied with the stomach that they soon become affected and the result is that instead of spending a few dollars for a medicine like Dreco which would have quickly brought relief, you are soon lying in bed paying a heavy doctor bill.

The experience of Miss Lora Brown, a well-known young lady living on Route 2, Richmond, Michigan, is typical of many others here in this vicinity. She says: "I recently suffered a nervous breakdown and was so weak and worn out that I didn't know what to do. Hearing of Dreco from so many people, I decided to try this wonderful medicine and now I want to say that it has done for me more than I ever expected."

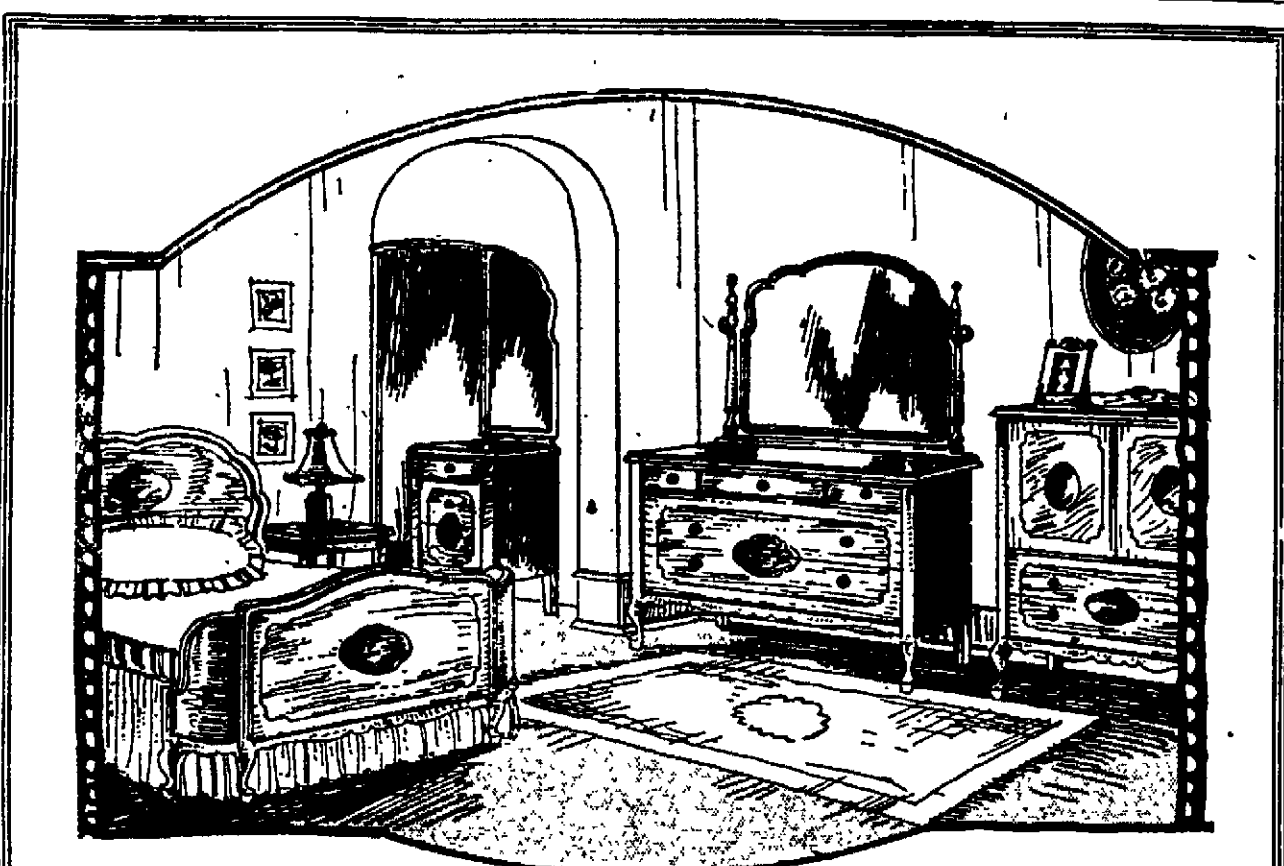

"I feel very much stronger, have gained in weight, and am sure that by the time I finish a complete treatment I will be absolutely well. I am no longer troubled with indigestion or heartburn after eating. My blood has been purified, the headaches overcome and my nerves have been so quieted that now I can go to bed and sleep all night long without the restless rolling and tossing I used to do."

Go see the Dreco man at Schlitz Bros. Downtown Drug Store. Let him tell you what Dreco will do for you. He will gladly give you a written guarantee that will entitle you to a full refund of every cent you pay if Dreco fails to help you.

Mr. W. V. Martin, the well-known Expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Schlitz Bros. downtown drug-store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him.

NO REQUEST FOR DEPUTIES' STARS FOR VIGILANTES

Sheriff Not Sure if He Will Deputize Citizens Protective Force

Sheriff Peter Schwartz declared Thursday he is not prepared to state whether he will deputize members of the proposed vigilante force for Outagamie co as deputy sheriffs. As yet, he has received no formal request to deputize them from the Outagamie-co Bankers association, which decided at a special meeting Tuesday evening that such a force should be organized. It is probable that the request will not be made until other plans of the bankers' association have been completed.

Sheriff Schwartz said he expects to attend the meeting of Wisconsin sheriffs at Madison next week. He indicated that the matter of the vigilantes probably will be discussed there, and that the meeting may help him decide as to the necessity of the proposed organization. Twenty-two Wisconsin counties are now either fully or partially organized with vigilante forces.

FINISH OFFICE FOR CITY TRUANT OFFICER

A new office which will be occupied by J. G. Pfeil, truant officer, will be completed next week as an addition to the present city school offices in Lincoln school building. The mimeograph department also will be placed in the new room. Miss Dorothy Douglas is to be in charge of this department and she will also be secretary to Mr. Pfeil.

This office was formerly the fifth grade room of the school. The old assembly room of the school has been remodeled as the fifth grade room. The school will be without a general assembly room. The supply rooms in the basement of the Lincoln school have been finished and are being stocked.

According to Mr. Hall, the pumps at the station were busy for 16 hours each day.

Super-Secretary Way To Explain Reed's Super-Work

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Washington—Trust as extraordinary a senator as James A. Reed of Missouri to have an extraordinary secretary.

The fact is that Hicklin Yates is far more than a mere secretary, or even super-secretary. He comes pretty close to being an assistant senator. Indeed, there are quite a few full senators, who aren't as important as Assistant Senator Yates.

Reed is very proud of his secretary, or assistant, and he has reason to be. Yates is a unique possession and extremely valuable.

Reed has so many interests and such strenuous ones, he's on so many Senate committees and sub-committees and special committees, he conducts so many investigations, he makes so many speeches, he's involved in so many fights, his time is so over-occupied that there simply isn't enough of him to go around.

As the saying is, he ought to be incorporated.

Well, in effect, so he is, with himself as president, engaged in mapping out broad general policies. Yates, as vice president and general manager, is in charge of the company's actual operations.

For instance, everybody wondered how in the world Reed managed to push that investigation into the late Pennsylvania Republican senatorial primary election and keep up with his regular Senate work at the same time.

The investigation alone ran three sessions daily and far into the night. By itself it looked as if it was enough to keep the Missouri senator more than fully occupied while it lasted. Yet he always was on hand in the Senate chamber when the soldiers were transacting business mixing into everything, debating and discussing and orating, just as if he had nothing, else on his mind.

How did he do it?

The answer is—Hicklin Yates. When Reed was appointed chairman of the slush fund investigating committee, Yates, as his secretary, automatically became the committee's secretary.

He worked up the whole investigation.

It was his case, so to speak, prepared by him as an office lawyer prepares a case, to turn over to the court room specialist who develops it, through the examination and cross-examination of witnesses sums up and demands a verdict on the evidence.

You never would learn from Yates himself, for example, how much he had to do with the Pennsylvania slush fund investigation, only it was perfectly visible to the naked eye, at the hearings.

Reed would arrive, all cocked and primed, a witness would take the stand and proceedings would begin. They'd run along for awhile and then there'd be a hitch. Yates would be seen whispering to his chief or slipping him a memorandum. Reed would listen or read, grin, and go to it again.

This was going on constantly there was no making any mistake about it. It was Yates keeping the boss posted.

Guillotine Days

ALTHOUGH this merry mode of getting it in the neck has passed comfortably out of fashion for humans, there's still a big yearly crop of fine expensive motors consigned to the same fate. And it's right in these between-spring-and-summer days that they draw their sentence!

Just because warm weather lets poor cheapened gas take down its warning sign of difficult or impossible starting, the thoughtless owner forgets that this is only a meaningless EXTERNAL sign.

About this time of year he falsely argues that now it's safe enough to change to cheapened stuff, forgetting that the harmful elements that made starting hard ARE STILL THERE, unremoved by temperature and doubly dangerous because the car is in greater use.

Wadhams 370 True Gasoline (at the Yellow Pumps)

is the safe gas for spring and summer for identically the same reason that it was the quick-starting gas for winter.

It has no kerosenish, free-carbon elements to play hob with valves, thin down your oil and commit your motor to the undeserved fate of ragged, battering running that spells early death of its efficiency.

And beyond that, Wadhams 370's extra cost is only at the pump. Before the tank is empty, it pays for itself in more miles, quicker warm-up, better speed and smoother, more dependable power.

Save your car the sentence of misplaced thrift.

KAUKAUNA MAY HAVE THEATRE
BY END OF YEARMilwaukee Men Spend Day in City Looking for Suitable Site

Kaukauna—There is a possibility that Kaukauna will have an up to date theatre within another year. Early in the week several Milwaukee men called on C. Wolf, city clerk, with the idea of getting some information about the city as well as desirable sites for a theatre. They were particularly interested in the two lots along the canal facing on Main-ave and between the canal and Rennie's coal yard.

The visitors said that if a theatre is built here it will be modern and up to date in every respect. On the whole it would compare favorably with the theatres in larger cities in the valley.

Last year Saxe representatives of Milwaukee spent several days in Kaukauna looking over available buildings for a theatre, but dropped the matter when a suitable building could not be found.

CLERKS DEFEAT
POSTALS, 8 TO 7Postoffice Employees Force
"Merchants to Extend Themselves to Win

Kaukauna—The Clerks got off on the right leg in the race for the Kaukauna Twilight Soft Ball league bunt-fra by beating the Postals 8 to 7 Thursday night in an interesting game. A greatly strengthened Postal outfit greeted the Clerks and for a while it looked as though the Clerks were doomed to defeat. Nagan did the mound work for the Postals and H. Minkebege toiled on the hill for the Clerks. Both teams kept pace with each other in the first by scoring once. The Clerks scored three times in the second on two overthrows from third to first. Trepit could not keep the ball down. The Postals hit Minkebege, hard in the third and four runs came home. The next inning it was the Clerks turn to score and they sent three runners over to make the score 7 to 5 in their favor. The Postals gained on the Clerks in the fifth by crossing the plate three times while the latter could only get two men. But it was enough to win the game for there was no more scoring on either side.

A big game is in store for the fans next week when the Clerks meet the strong Electricians.

The surprising feature of the first weeks play in the second half of the league season is the strength being shown by the supposedly weaker teams of the league. Both the Bankers and the Volley-balls won their games and were only poor second division teams the first half.

At the end of the first week of play of the second half:

BEAN SAMPLES
- ARE CANNED AT LOCAL FACTORYEntire Crop Will Be Ready for Canning in About Ten
More Days

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Bean samples, the first of the season, have been canned at the cannery of Hamilton and Sons, and associates of the company state that the machinery is being made ready and outlying stations are being prepared to care for the crop which is expected to be in readiness within ten days. The crop outlook is good. The hot weather of the last week with rain falling at opportune time has hastened the growth of both the bean and cucumber crops.

Gathering stations are located at Appleton, Weyauwega, Manawa and Royallton. Contracts have been let to growers at all those places and there are still other growers who do not hold contracts who will market their crops with the local firm.

The community about Appleton is devoted largely to the growing of beans but Weyauwega has a large acreage of cucumbers. The autumn months at the Hamilton plant are devoted to kraut canning.

Approximately 20 persons will be employed during the canning season. Rupp Euta of Appleton and John Kerstein were married July 19 at the home of the bride's parents. The couple left at once for Montello for a two week's wedding trip and, on their return will make their home in this city.

functioned may be gathered from the fact that the forty were finally picked from a select list of 400.

An elaborate garden party at a magnificent Long Island home of a New York millionaire is one of the features of the picture. This splendid garden setting is part of a vast set that includes an enormous drawing room, dining room and several anterooms. There are two immense Gothic fireplaces, and the entire set is decorated with rare old Belgian tapestries. The latter form the most beautiful drapes ever used in motion pictures and because of their value were guarded day and night by six watchmen.

"Paddedock" is based on the Rex Beach story which appeared serially in the Cosmopolitan, beginning a few months ago. It is a strong drama of modern life, picturing the bitter clash between the older generation and the younger generation and will be shown at Fischer's Appleton Theatre for 3 days starting Sunday.

Lois Moran, Louis Dresser and Noah Beery head a powerful cast of competent players.
 Vincent Carr and his gang will give an unusually strong stage program assisted by Hines and Smith "The Melody Boys."

FILM VERSION OF POWERFUL

REX BEACH STORY
 In "Paddedock," Rex Beach, brilliant American author, has written a searching, dramatic story that is a sweeping revelation of this restless age—a flaming document of our times! With a series of intensely human and vividly compelling situations, he has built up a strong, close-knit plot that emphasizes with striking clarity and force the bitter conflict now raging between the older and younger generations. The central character is a lovely, high-spirited girl, who, driven from home by the soul-crushing bigotry of her narrow-minded father, plunges into the mad vortex of Broadway night life. Her inherent moral strength and indomitable courage carry her through dark days of hardship and temptation up to the crest of the wave of fortune. Smart society welcomes her with open arms; a romance with a scion of wealth develops. Then, suddenly, her father lashes out at her, like an avenging demon. Money, reputation, admirers vanish. But from the depths to which she descends, emerges a glorious woman and a great love.

This great photoplay will be shown Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday at Fischer's Appleton Theatre in conjunction with a stage program by Vincent Carr and his band assisted by Hines and Smith, the Harmony Boys.

"THE TIMBER WOLF"

WITH BUCK JONES
 IS VIRILE DRAMA

For thrills and speed; virile drama, enacted by competent players. "The Timber Wolf" starring Buck Jones, popular William Fox actor, takes the cake. The fast moving outdoor drama will be shown at the new Bijou today and Saturday.

The story is by Jackson Gregory. Interesting author of western fiction. While the locale of this story is a logging camp, the same solid quality of his gripping western stories has been injected into the tale with startling results.

The story is of a man of the north woods—the owner of vast timber lands—whose rugged methods of dealing with men has earned him the name of Timber Wolf. A mine, hidden in a mysterious canyon, crooks and a dishonest sheriff figure importantly in the action. With such a combination a plentiful of action is bound to result. In fact, "The Timber Wolf" exceeds the wildest expectations.

Buck Jones, popular star, is genuinely pleasing; aside from his athletic qualifications this young man can act convincingly. Buck packs motion pictures into a motion picture than there are bees in a hive, and his stunts are nerve tinglers.

 Elinor Fair makes an adequate feminine foil for the big star and Wall Valling, Dave Davis, Sam Allen and Robert Mack add unique interpretations.

WHY THEY GO HOME

"Why Girls Go Back Home," the Warner picture which is coming to the Elite Theatre on Saturday and Sunday, has a brilliant cast to enact the reason why girls do go back and was directed by James Flood.
 Patsy Ruth Miller plays Marie

Downy, a small town girl who falls in love with an actor at the local theatre and follows him to New York, believing his love is as genuine as hers. This role is said to give Miss Miller the greatest opportunity of her successful career, since it combines dramatic and comedic possibilities and allows her to show how perfectly she can execute the Charleston.
 Clive Brook plays the handsome matinee idol who finds his idle flirtation with the native country girl has been taken too seriously to suit him, and plans a cruel revenge.
 Jane Winton plays the leading

EKERN FLAYS PROPOSAL FOR $3 "HEAD" TAX

Gubernatorial Candidate Says Manufacturers Would Place Burden on Poor

Beaver Dam, Wis.—(P)—The proposal of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association that the state collect an annual $3 fee from every person over 21 years old was condemned by Attorney General Herman L. Ekers in a speech here today as a return of "the discredited poll tax system."

"I am opposed to the reintroduction in Wisconsin of the discredited poll tax system as proposed by the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association," Mr. Ekers declared. "I favor such readjustment in our tax laws and in their administration as will strengthen the present laws and distribute the burden as equitably as possible. There is no demand in Wisconsin for any radical change in our tax laws except from such sources as the manufacturers' association."

NIGGER IN WOODPILE

"The tax plan of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association holds out the lure of the repeal of the surtax. There is a nigger in the woodpile in the form of an annual $3 filing fee, which the manufacturers would have every man and woman over 21 years of age pay. This is, of course, nothing more than the old poll tax regardless of what they call it. They propose to have this tax no matter what other taxes are paid. This poll tax scheme of the manufacturers association has been estimated by them to yield $23,000.00 per year, indicating that they expect 766,666 persons to pay this tax. Last year 229,575 persons paid an income tax, which means that this new tax would place an additional tax burden upon above 500,000 individuals."

"A majority of these are farmers, workers and small homeowners, persons who already pay heavy property taxes, although perhaps paying no income tax. All these are now to have their taxes increased, although they are already over taxed. But not only will over 500,000 persons who now pay no income tax have their taxes increased through this new $3 poll tax, but so will all but a few thousand of the 229,575 persons who now pay income taxes. Every income tax payer is to pay this $3 'filing fee' in addition to his income taxes. This means that every income taxpayer who now pays less than $3 surtaxes would under this iniquitous plan of the manufacturers' association have his income tax increased."

"Only 5,000 or less of the nearly 230,000 individuals who paid income taxes last year paid surtaxes of $3 or more. Thus, this new poll tax proposed by the manufacturers' association will mean an increase in taxes not only for 500,000 farmers and workmen who pay no income tax, but also to 222,000 income taxpayers. And the end? So that, the 8,000 persons who have the largest incomes taxes may have their taxes reduced."

"The fundamental error of the manufacturers' association plan is the assumption that the wealthy are to be relieved and the many are to be taxed more. Collecting very much of the money for the expense of the collecting. The resulting revenue to the public becomes very small. Besides the state is interested in every person living up to the highest standard practicable. A small tax on a small income is much more burdensome than a large tax upon a large income. A tax of $3 on a $1,200 income leaves only $1,197 to live on while a tax of $7,000 on a $100,000 income leaves $93,000 for the years' expenses. Plainly the $7,000 tax is much more

Mrs. Crooked Lance Scorns Oldtime "Smokeless" Debs

Mrs. Crooked Lance, age 97, wife of Chief Crooked Lance, a mogul of the Sioux tribesmen with Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch Real Wild West and Great Far East, is the leader of the younger set among the Indians with the big show, coming to Appleton, Thursday, Aug. 5. Despite her age, she is a debutante, for her coming out did not occur until she and her husband joined the troupe. During her 97 years, Madam Crooked Lance has been conserving pep for the great day when she would make her society bow and set the fads for the flappers of the tribes. And while many of the Indian girls prefer monogrammed cigarettes, especially when dining out, Madam Crooked Lance sticks to her pipe, but she is tolerant of the likes of the youngsters.

EXPECT RECORD CROWD AT CONCERT BY BAND

A record crowd is expected to attend the concert by the 120th Field Artillery band in Pierce park on Friday evening. Police will make arrangements for handling the crowd and for parking space for automobiles. Seats probably will be provided. Last week about 2,000 cars were parked on the grounds.

A feature number which has been added to the program will be a selection on organ chimes by Clarence Meltz.

fair than the $3 tax and when it is remembered that it will cost about the same to collect the $3 tax as the $7,000 tax it is very obvious which is the more just and desirable tax."

Founder of Religious Training School Here Takes Position in West

Emme, Appleton, superintendent of religious education of the Wisconsin Conference of Methodist Episcopal churches, has accepted a position as professor of religious education and extension at Nebraska Wesleyan university. Dr. Emme will leave Appleton shortly after Aug. 1 to assume his duties at the university.

This university is located at University place four miles from Lincoln and has an enrollment of about 800.

SEEK WOMAN FORGER IN FOX RIVER VALLEY

Fond du Lac police are looking for a woman who has passed numerous worthless checks, drawn on various banks in the Fox River valley, including Appleton, Neenah and Oshkosh, according to a report from Fond du Lac. The woman operated in Fond du Lac on Saturday and Tuesday, signing her name as "Mrs. M. F. Phillips," the report states.

This program was the first of its kind in Wisconsin. The plan included a community vacation Bible school, a night training school for teachers and the week-day church school. The week day with an enrollment of 230 and growing substantially each year.

In a bulletin from Lawrence college describing the work during 1923, Dr. Plantz says: "Much credit belongs to Prof. Emme for the energy he has put into the work of establishing developing the work of religious education as it is now conducted in Appleton."

Dr. Emme is co-author of "Principles of Religious Education," recently published by the Macmillan company. This book is being used as a text in religious education in a number of colleges.

Appleton police declare that they have not been notified of any bogus check activities by the woman in this city, nor have they been asked to aid in her arrest.

USE AIRPLANES TO DRIVE BUGS OUT OF FORESTS

Hemlock Spanworms Killed
by Dust Thrown from Airships

Fisk Creek, Wis.—(P)—The scattering of poison from airplanes, adopted in boll weevil control work, has been found successful in eradicating spanworms that damage the hemlock forest of northern Wisconsin.

As a result of the dusting of trees in Peninsula State Park in Door-co, Dr. S. B. Fracker, state entomologist, has informed District Attorney Otto L. Olen of Waupaca-co. A meeting of the town board held in Clintonville was illegal, J. F. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, ruled. The filling of vacancies by the board at the meeting created a defacto board, but not de jure officers, it was added.

The dusting of the park from an airplane was begun as an experiment about a week ago. The hemlock spanworms are now dying, Dr. Fracker reports, and are found on the ground at the rate of 50 to 75 to the square yard. They are being killed by the calcium arsenate distributed by the plane.

"This is one of the most difficult flying jobs imaginable," says Leslie Smith, the pilot. "The cliffs ranging from one hundred to two hundred feet in height, cause air eddies and downward currents which at times make the plane almost unmanageable. I am flying within ten to twenty-five feet of the tops of the trees when releasing the dust and the least failure of the motor would let the plane sink into the branches."

It is the height of the tourist season in Door-co and the dusting work is attracting the attention of hundreds from other states. The plane can be seen in operation from two towers on high points in the park, as well as from Fish Creek and Ephraim.

DOZEN WANT JOB TO CHECK ADVERTISERS

Madison, Wis.—(P)—A dozen applicants for the job of keeping advertising honest in Wisconsin appeared before the state civil service commission for examination Tuesday.

The commission is preparing to assign special investigators to the state treasury agent's department to enforce the fraudulent advertising law enacted last year. State Senator Oscar Morris, secretary of the Better Business Bureau in Milwaukee which was active in obtaining passage of the law, helped in the examination of the applicants, at the request of the commission.

EVEN NEW YORKERS ARE IGNORANT OF SPEED LAW

New York—(P)—With Streams of traffic moving endlessly in all directions, and automobiles doing everything but climbing the fronts of buildings, the New York motorist might be expected to keep a large number of traffic regulations in his head. Many of them do not.

Five New Yorkers who drive automobiles daily were asked the speed laws. Four of them never heard of any—and the fifth had been fined for speeding.

Traffic Cops Say Women Are Better Drivers Than Men

WHO are the better drivers, men or women?
Why, the women!
Who says so?
Why, the men!
What men?
Why, the policemen!
So there you have it. It is the truth. Here is the evidence that cannot be denied.

Traffic police in nine of the large cities of the country were interviewed regarding the merits and demerits of men and women at the wheels of automobiles. They not only were interviewed, but they voted.

And their vote, 5 to 4, was in favor of women drivers. Here are the nine cities, and the way the traffic officer at one of the busiest corners in each city cast his lot:

BEST DRIVERS
New York	Women
Chicago	Women
Cleveland	Men
Kansas City	Men
Washington	Women
Seattle	Men
San Francisco	Women
Los Angeles	Men

New Orleans Women

TOTAL Women
The Post-Crescent will begin a series explaining just why the police voted as they did. Each policeman was interviewed and gave his reasons for preferring men or women as drivers.

Do women drivers try to vamp the police? Read this series of nine articles and you may get a new opinion on the matter.

Are women naturally quarrelsome with the police. The officer in Kansas City has some very choice views on that subject.

More Skillful?
Are the men more skillful drivers in a pinch? All the police have very sound convictions on this matter, and the series will shed their light on it.

Are women hard to arrest? Ah, another little matter that the series will take up. And each copper has his opinion on that issue, too.

Start the first story today. Of course you have your own opinion about which are the better drivers, but there may be something here that will change your mind.

No matter what you think, there are the facts. Nine police voted, nine police from the busiest corners in the United States, and they favored the woman driver, 5 to 4.

Traffic Officer, Broadway and 42nd Street, New York

A pretty girl will drive up to me, see my hand against her, smile, and go straight ahead. It happens every day.

And every day I blow the whistle, stop all the traffic and "bawl her out." I think they must like it, they do it so often.

Not To Be Gallant

But women autoists as a rule are better drivers than men, in my opinion—and I'm not saying that just to be gallant. I mean it. Their chief fault is in being too cautious. They think only of their own car. It's usually the women who drive slowly down the center of the road, while a dozen men behind toot valiantly for her to edge over and let them pass.

And she'll slow down without thinking of the machine behind. And park in a narrow place in the road—though men do that, too.

More Likely to Blow Up

In a real jam, a woman is more likely to blow up completely than a man. Although at that I've seen women pull stunts successfully in traffic no man would dare to try.

This is one of the busy corners of the world. Millions of autos have passed by in the six years I've stood here. I've seen all kinds of drivers—

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN and FAY MILBURN buy a home when their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract. Among their acquaintances are—

NOEL and VERA BOYD, whose marriage is strictly "modern."

PAT and MARIAN FORBES, who have three children and whose domestic life is unhappy because of Pat's roving tendencies. Previous chapters told how:

John was fascinated on meeting NELL ORME. For her, his life was having trouble with her husband.

Fay took JUDITH, the baby to visit her parents in Milwaukee and during her absence John "ran around" a good deal. When Fay returned gossip had related his actions and sharp quarrels followed, one of which drove John "out on a limb," and caused Fay to threaten to leave him.

John finds that people are talking about him and NATHANIEL GRAHAM, his partner, charges his actions are damaging the firm's reputation. John later, by accident, encounters Nell Orme at Vera Boyd's. He resolves not to see her again, realizing she is carrying him off his feet, but he does, and the day comes when he takes her madly in his arms.

Fay, learning of it, leaves John. He closes the house and takes an apartment.

PAUL DAVIDSON, a friend of John's, surprises everyone with his sudden marriage to a woman of doubtful character.

John chances to see Nat Graham at lunch with a member of a rival agency one day, and the next time Nat makes an allusion to his own bad habits. John lets all a mystery about his actions being difficult to explain, too, and turns on his heel.

(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER LII

John was not a little sorry that he had said what he had to Graham.

Fool he thought, to be hinting about the ace he had up his sleeve.

And yet he had not pursued the thing further, had not demanded to know that John was hinting at.

The thought revolved in John's mind that he would like to buy Graham out and run the business himself.

True, there were a lot of things about it he did not understand as well as Graham. Probably he would have a little rough sledding for a time, but still he could work tremendously hard at it and surely he could outdo some young man with sales ability, to come in and help him.

He thought it would be far more pleasant without the censorious Graham and his continual complaining.

But what chance did he have? Supposing Nat were willing to sell out, how could he raise the money?

Surely, Graham would demand at least twenty thousand dollars for his share, and that was an impossible sum for John, saddled as he was with debt.

There was the house on his hands, he reflected. It was a virtual white elephant. And he had already eaten into the firm's reserve for an emergency. And that idea he had had of establishing his personal credit at the bank had gone up in smoke, because of the quarrel with Blodgett. He had changed banks, of course. But at his new bank he was virtually a stranger and with his meager checking account hardly to be considered seriously in the matter of credit.

Perhaps, he thought, Nat would like to buy him out. Now, that would be more practical. Graham had saved his money, and doubtless could raise the required amount with no trouble at all.

But John refused to think of it any longer. There was something more than the work he had put in this business; it had grown to be a part of him.

Still, if Fay was going to go through with this thing, wouldn't it be better to forget and go off somewhere for a fresh start? It hurt him, the very thought of giving up. What else did he have to cling to, now that everything else worth while had forsaken him?

There was a note one day from Nell Orme, a friendly little thing, chiding him for his neglect of her and reminding him he shouldn't forget they were still friends.

He crumpled it up and threw it away, and didn't bother to answer it.

And for days afterward he kept telling himself that he needn't have acted like that. After all Nell was not to blame for his trouble. It was himself, he still liked her—liked her tremendously.

It was just that the flavor of it had gone, somehow, and the thing was no longer an adventure.

He was planning a layout one morning with Briggs when Paul Davidson, looking haggard as if from a long illness, came in and said hoarsely if John didn't mind he'd like to have him take lunch with him.

"Why certainly, Paul," and John, as he grasped the other's hand and wrung it, felt sudden, biting pity for this poor friend of his.

What a change! Davidson's slipshod, debonair manner had gone entirely, and his shadowed blue eyes seemed to have sunk into his head.

Words rushed to John's lips, words of astonishment and concern and inquiry, but he checked them and said nothing other than to invite Paul to sit down and wait for him—"I'll only be a few minutes, Paul."

Paul was silent throughout most of the meal. If he had had it in his mind to say anything to John he must have thought better of it, or been afraid to come out with it.

"Why don't you look a fellow up?" John finally asked accusingly, and Davidson, puffing at his cigarette shrugged his shoulders in melancholy fashion and smiled—a smile so pitiful, John thought, that it sent sudden, darting pain through him. What a shame!

When Davidson had paid the check and was pushing back his chair, he paused to fix serious eyes on John and murmur, "Those who dance, you know, must pay the piper."

That was all, and John dared not ask the questions that were in his mind.

Together they made their way down the street, and when they had reached the Appleton Hotel, Davidson, glancing toward the windows of John's office, said musingly, "Graham and Milburn—well."

And then he suddenly confronted John and stuck out his hand.

"Thanks, John," he said, "for being decent enough not to ask any questions."

"Why, Paul," John began in embarrassment, but the other silenced him. "No. Not got to run along. Good-bye. Old man, good-bye."

"Good-bye," John echoed after him. He stood for a short time, watching Davidson's figure, no longer swaggering, he wondered why he felt so troubled in his mind about Paul. He wondered at the vague premonition of tragedy that was intruding on his thoughts. "Good-bye," he was still whispering, half to himself.

The thing came as a surprise to nearly everyone else but John, and to him it explained something of the troubled fears he had felt over Davidson.

The papers came out with the story three days after they had lunched together. Paul had left town—had disappeared—and had left behind him a note to his wife explaining that all his money and his automobile were hers and their unborn baby's.

It was everything he had, the note went on, and he was sorry it wasn't more. But his bank books showed deposits of several thousand dollars, and there was nearly ten thousand more in stocks and bonds.

"Don't worry about me," the note concluded, "Just forget me, for you'll never see me again. I'm awfully sorry."

Paul's wife had gone immediately to the police, and there was little of regret about her, so John afterward learned from one of his newspaper friends. "In fact," he told John "she wanted to make sure that Davidson held nothing back from her."

What was behind it all, Milburn—is it true that he gave her his name?" John nodded.

"Well, we've all got to admit that Davidson did the decent thing. Imagine leaving nearly fifteen thousand dollars with that cheap—" he left the name unspoken—"I'd have given her the air and nothing more, if it had been me."

Alone in his room that night John felt a new loneliness. Now Paul was gone—Paul who, despite his liberal views on certain things and his contempt for conventions, was, nevertheless, inherently so decent and so much the gentleman. Everything and everyone worth while, John told himself mournfully, were slipping away. Was nothing to be left to him—nothing at all?

Of course, there was Dick Menefee, but he didn't want Dick's pity didn't want anyone's.

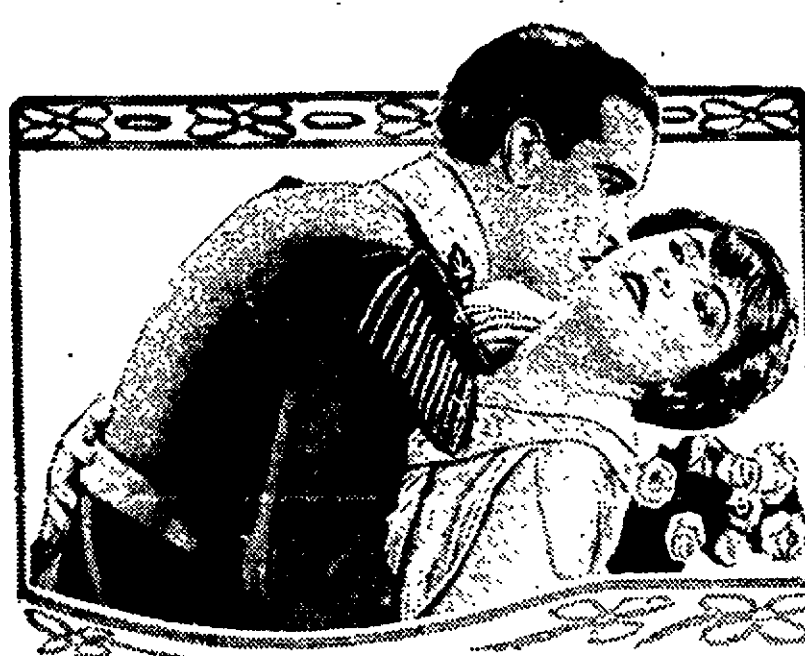

And now John was to learn of some of the malicious gossip that followed in the wake of Davidson's strange disappearance. Partly because he himself had experienced the evil effects of this idle tongue wagging, and partly because of his own regard for Davidson, he felt called upon to resent it whenever it reached him.

Noel Boyd, whom John hadn't seen in weeks and weeks—and hadn't particularly cared to see—encountered him on the street one day, and the first thing Boyd mentioned was the story about Paul.

"Couldn't stand the gaff, eh?" he laughed, and John found himself stiffening. Why, he asked himself, did he dislike Noel Boyd so? He chose not to answer, and Boyd, his mouth twisting into that sneering smile of his, began to speak in a contemptuous manner of Davidson's "dam-foolishness."

"A sucker—that's what he was. Well, he had it coming. He was always one of these birds who thought he knew it all. He got by with murder for a long time—eh?"

John felt that he would like nothing better than to smash the other and walk contemptuously away.

Scene from "SATAN IN SABLES" A Warner Picture AT THE ELITE THEATRE LAST TIMES TODAY

"Why don't you close your filthy mouth?" he cried in anger and exasperation. "If Paul did make a mistake once in a while, at least he did it like a gentleman. Let the man alone."

Boyd colored hotly and threw his head back with a sharp gesture. His eyes doubled: his eyes, as they regarded the other, squinted until they nearly closed.

It seemed for a moment that he would surely hit Milburn, but under John's contemptuous stare he evidently thought better of it; for suddenly recovering, he shrugged, and with a final hostile glance, turned abruptly away.

"I wish you had hit me, you dirty pup," John murmured, looking after him.

Nat Graham that afternoon kept looking at him with a half amused expression in his eyes, and toward five o'clock sauntered carelessly over to John's desk, and observed that it seemed as if another one of John's friends had disgraced himself.

Once again John had to restrain himself from striking out with his fist. He managed to fix Graham with a cold look and to keep his voice from rising as he said, "I've had to resent a statement like that once before today, Nat, and I'm quite ready to do it again."

His eyes never once left Graham's, and the other, not caring to arouse the wild fury that slumbered in this moody partner of his, turned his back and found an excuse to leave the office.

And at night, alone again in his room. And the thought that he couldn't go on like this, forever carrying a chip on his shoulder and blinding out at people who irritated him.

"Oh, Fay," he groaned, "how could you do it?"

What was Fay doing at this very moment, as he sat, so dejected and forlorn, and tried to tear some comfort out of a strong pipe? Was she even then coolly contemplating her forthcoming divorce and her plans for the future? Didn't she miss him one little bit?

At that very moment, had he but known, Fay was alone in her room, and in her hands was a picture of John. Wistful tears were in her eyes as she studied it, and a half strangled sob escaped her.

He could not know that Fay's heart was almost breaking, that his sins now seemed so insignificant as to be almost nothing in the face of a love for him that was as undentable as the restless tides.

But women are sensitive, and men have their pride, and so surrender on the part of either was not to be thought of.

ZOUNDS! SACRE BLEU! OH DEAR!

New York—The caulflowering of a pink ear, the rumpling of patent leather socks, the ballooning of a delicate nose—such calamities are as nothing when the warm blood of a sheik reaches the boiling point.

The sheik will risk all for the sake of honor.

So he says, does Sheik Rudolph Valentino, arriving in New York on urgent business, but ready to hasten back to Chicago with the speed of the wind if he can get his challenge accepted. His challenge—you know—to the editor who wrote a slurring editorial captioning him "Pink Powder Puffs."

"He blacked my manhood, my count, my family name. It is too much," snorts the flapper's idol, and elinks his silver slave bracelets ominously.

So here we have Signor Valentino in fighting mood, and in fighting trim, stripped for action, and cursed be he who first cries "Hold, Daoud!"

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

HELD AS A CHEAT
"Did you have the bag with you when you came in here?"
"Yes, I laid it on the table beside me."

"That isn't a plausible story. A bag could not walk off of the table." "No, sir, but a man came up to my table just a moment before and tried to speak to me and I, not wanting to make a scene, turned my head away. He talked for a minute or two, at least it seemed that long for I was rather frightened, and then he left. It made me so nervous that I forgot to look for my bag until I thought of paying my bill."
The man looked at me without speaking for a few moments.
"You say you have no friends in the city. Where were you going to sleep tonight?"
"I am at the Blackstone," I answered.

"Why didn't you dine there?"
"Because it seemed too expensive."
"I don't understand—too expensive?" Young woman who carelessly carry two hundred and fifty dollars around in their shopping bags, must at least have friends or a bank account."

"At the present moment I have neither, although I question your right to expect an answer from me to such a question. I have come to Chicago to hunt work and did not know how expensive the hotel was until after I got there."
"Oh, so that's it. You want work." Again he looked me over in a way that brought the color to my face.
"What sort of work are you looking for?"
"I was going to take a stenographic course and in the meantime take any sort of temporary employment to carry me over."

"I was getting more and more nervous and it seemed if he would ask me another question I would scream. Won't you please let me go now? I'll try to get some sort of work in the morning and I promise I shall pay you. Please do not telephone to the hotel for I must sleep there tonight. I have no thought of trying to steal from anyone."
I started for the door, my only thought to get away from those bold, prying eyes.
"Here, here, young woman not so fast," said the detective. He grasped my arm so roughly that it hurt and I gave an involuntary little cry.

SWIMMERS FLOCK TO "Y" SWIMMING POOL

Approximately 175 men and boys have been using the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool daily the last ten days. Officials of that institution state that the large number now visiting the pool sets a record for the year, and that the number using the privilege is increasing each day. Only members of the organization are allowed to use the pool, tennis courts, and other features. Boys have been given two periods for swimming, from 4:15 to 4:45 in the afternoon, and 7:15 to 7:45 in the evening. Men who hold membership cards are allowed the use of the pool at any other time, with the exception of Sundays, when recreational features of the Y. M. C. A. are closed. The pool is open for men from 9 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock in the evening. The water in the pool is kept at a temperature of from 72 to 74 degrees in summer and about 78 degrees in winter.

NICK WILLIAMS

Former scout for the San Francisco Seals in the Pacific Coast League, who has succeeded Bert Ellison as manager of the same club, Ellison resigned because "there was too much grief" with a tailender. Williams was at one time pilot of the Logan (Utah) team and is well known in baseball circles, having been associated with the pastime for many years.

LEWELLEN SIGNS BAY GRID ROSTER

Star of 1925 Backfield and Former Menasha Hurler Ready for 1926

Green Bay—"Lou" Lewellen, whom many rated as the outstanding star of the Packers of 1925, has signed his contract to cavort again on the chalk marked field and the Big Bay Blues. This will be Lewellen's third year in a Green Bay uniform. Lou joined Lambau's squad in the fall of 1924 after he had graduated from Nebraska, where he played three years of varsity football. He was captain of the Cornhusker eleven in 1923.

IS GREAT PUNTER
Last fall, the Packer backfielder was named on the second All American pro selection and he deserved the berth as he had performed in brilliant style throughout the season. When Cub Buck's knee went bad on him, Lou took over the punting duties and he did the job so well that it wasn't necessary again to pull the big tackle out of the line to boot the ball.

Lewellen is a splendid receiver of the forward pass and in 1925, he was on the "catcher's" end of several touchdowns that raised Green Bay's football stock sky high. Those who saw the Bear game here will never forget how secondary defense to grab the pass and secondary defense to grab the pass from Lambau that turned defeat into victory for the Packers in the last few minutes of play.

The Packer backfield is also a first class backfield. He is pitching this season for the Algoma club of the Lake Shore league and has earned the reputation of being one of the best slubbers in the loop.

CLASS C pairings:

JONNARD WINS MOUND DUEL FROM BREWS, 1-0

Toledo—(AP)—Jonnard beat Maun in a tight pitchers' battle here and Milwaukee defeated Toledo, 1 to 0. The lone run was scored in the first inning on Shulte's triple and Griffin's double.

INDIANS PUSH TO 2ND IN NEW LOOP

Trip Athletics, 4-2, to Move Up; Severid Goes to Yanks by Waiver

The number 13 is welcomed by a big league ball club when it represents a tally of its runs in one game. Three teams won their games by counting 13 runs Thursday. The New York Yankees beat the White Sox, 13 to 10. Washington defeated Detroit, 13 to 9, and Cincinnati humbled Boston, 13 to 3. The Pirates went them all one better in turning back Brooklyn, 14 to 2.

The Yankees retained their seven game margin in the American League as Philadelphia lost its sixth straight game and Cleveland won. Ruth cleared the bases with a triple for New York and Barrett, a pinch hitter did the same for Chicago. Gehrig of the Yankees hit a home run.

Cleveland advanced to second position in the American League by beating the Athletics, 1 to 2. George Burns of the Indians led the attack with three hits one of which was his 41st double of the season.

Washington made five runs in the first inning and eight in the fifth. Ruether pitched all the way for the Senators and was hit hard in the closing frames.

St. Louis captured its third straight from the Red Sox, 5 to 4, after 11 innings. "Paul" Jacobson, former Brown, now in the Boston outfield, made two doubles and three singles.

Cincinnati tallied eleven times in the second inning. Meanwhile Curtis Walker belted out two triples. Pittsburgh amassed its fourteen runs on 21 safe blows, five for extra bases. The Pirates had as many men left on the bases as runs they scored.

The St. Louis Cardinals outdid the Giants, 10 to 8, but lost, 5 to 3, when the New Yorkers rallied in the ninth for two runs. Southworth and Bell of the Cardinals and Terry of the Giants registered homers.

Chicago went down in the opening game of the series with the Phillies, 6 to 1. A Polish product of that city—although with a little German blood in his veins.

Joe Sangor, pride of the Ghetto here, will meet Harry Lenard of Chicago, a Polish product of that city, in a battle for the title of champion of the world in the ring.

Lenard will box at Morgenroth's gymnasium Thursday afternoon and remain here until the day of the contest. He is an ambidextrous boxer, hitting fully as well with the left as the "right," and with considerable steam back of his blows.

The Canton Vindicator in printing the story of the recent St. Louis battle said: "Kayo Lenard, the trimly built Polish lad, created a splendid impression among the fans."

Wayne Munn, the heavyweight wrestling title contender who is here tonight, has accepted an invitation to address the Kiwanis club in Green Bay next Monday noon. The man mountain is said to be just as much at home at the speaker's table as he is in the squared arena for a mat fracas.

According to officials of the Valley league, several other home product teams will be functioning in Wisconsin next year. It is understood that Madison is about through with the "high priced" baseball while the Wisconsin Valley leaguers are said to be swinging away from the imported stars.

Neal MacIntyre, who gained fame in valley golfing circles when serving as the Fondy Town and Country club pro, is still pretty much at home on the links. Neal is now connected with Gary, Ind. club and recently turned in a hole-in-one. It was a drive of 147 yards and landed flush in the cup.

With the scholastic football season less than eight weeks off, Marinette is beginning to take stock of its gridiron candidates and signs point to a first class eleven. Tom Johnson will have to build up a snappy machine as the Purple and white "cowhide" chasers are called on to face some tough games.

Although Cub Buck will not be with the Packers this fall, three Appletonians are expected to see service with Green Bay's great pro eleven. Jack MacAuliffe has already signed his contract while "Biff" Basing and Eddie Kotel are sure to be within the fold within the next few weeks.

Standings in the Lark loop remained the same Thursday when the scheduled game between the Rotary and Lions clubs was postponed. The Rotarians had about six men present while the Lions presented four for play.

Dance Every Friday, Nichols.

OSHKOSH HOPES TO STRENGTHEN 1ST-RUNG HOLD

SUNDAY GAMES

APPLETON AT OSHKOSH.
Green Bay at Fond du Lac.
Kimberly at Nenah.

When Appleton's baseball team of the Fox River Valley loop travels to Oshkosh Sunday to take on the Oshkosh loop leaders, the blessings of four other valley loop squads, especially those of Fond du Lac and Green Bay will go with the Baetzmen. For Oshkosh has won nine games and lost only one this year and boasts a full 2 1/2 games from the other teams on top. A win over Appleton Saturday may increase this lead to 3 1/2 games as the two closest Noel rivals, Fondy and Green Bay meet in the Fountain city. Every team which plays the Sawdust city crew must win from it soon or it is doomed to a six weeks of pastime—providing it wins all its games these weeks.

Oshkosh has been Appleton's jinx this year and the Baetzmen are determined to break the bad luck streak, break the Sawdust city's win streak, and start the other teams on the same path. Twice Appleton has showed fine ball up to the day of the Oshkosh game, only to throw that tilt away by every conceivable kind of an error and bonehead play. This time the locals are determined to play errorless ball. One shift in the local lineup which worked well last Sunday when the Baetzmen shut out Nenah, was the change of Schultz to short and Gosha to third, a reverse of positions. Cully went well at his new position where he will get plenty of action, against the Sawdusters in particular, and he promises to make a real go of it.

Oshkosh figures the first must win seven of its remaining ten games to make sure of the banner. Here's the Oshkosh side of Sunday's tilt:

TAKE NO CHANCES
"Oshkosh is gunning for these seven games without taking any chances on what the tailenders "might do." It has been some time since a championship pennant of any leading baseball league has floated from the local flagstaff and every effort is being put forth to have Oshkosh finish on top this season.

After the Appleton game here next Sunday, Oshkosh hopes to go forward with the slogan of "only six more games needed to clinch the pennant." But Appleton will give Oshkosh a battle even though Oshkosh has twice defeated the Papermakers this year.

HAS GOOD TWIRLERS
The Appleton hurling staff has been rounding into the best condition of the season and is expected to offer some hot slants for Oshkosh batters to solve. Crowe is a capable moundman, and Refke, another of Appleton's assets, is still a comparatively youngster, but the development he has shown lately ranks him as a serious threat to all opponents.

The veteran Sternagel, a star of former industrial leagues at Appleton is also on the Papermakers' hurling staff. The old-timer made his debut as a Valley league pitcher in the recent game against Oshkosh here, but all the kinds of inaction hadn't been worked out of the old soupbone and he was knocked out of the box. Sternagel's comeback is now believed to be complete and it may be that he will have another crack at Oshkosh next Sunday.

The Gas-Power crew of the Traction Co. softball loop Thursday afternoon at Fourth ward park beat the office team, 12-6. The win pulled the Gasmen up into a tie for second place with the strong Railways. Burmeister and Dunlap formed the losing battery with Young and Schultz occupying the points for the winners. The score was tied 4-4 in the first frame, but after that the Gasmen had an easy lead. They had been tied for fourth with the losers.

WESTERN LEAGUE HAS NIP-AND-TUCK BATTLE

Speaking of tight races, there's one going on in the Western League that the critics seemingly have overlooked. Oklahoma City, Des Moines, Denver, St. Joe and Tulsa are all within striking distance of top position. Oklahoma City is showing the way, at present, but by a slight margin only.

"Man Mountain" Who Threw Lewis From Ring And Slav Engage Picked Opponents

Munn Virtual Tittist as "Strangler" Wins It Back In Court; Slav Is Star

The class of the wrestling game will be presented for Appleton mat fans Friday evening at Armory G. when Ed "Strangler" Lewis, holder of the title for years. Though the major of ringside critics and fans thought he deserved the title, Lewis claimed a foul and won it back on a "legal" decision when he appealed to the courts. Ever since the former Nebraska University football star handled Lewis like a sack of meal and tossed him from the ring into a hospital, sporting enthusiasts in practically every community of the country have wanted to see the "man mountain" in action and Appleton is one place where these fans will have that opportunity given to them if they care to take advantage of it. He has had offers from all parts of the country but the long jumps to smaller cities caused him to turn them down. His opponent for the evening was not selected by Thursday, but the promoter has at least four stars, anxious to earn further reputations by both entering the giant, ready to go against him. "George Hill, former Appleton matman, will make the trial if he arrives here for the match.

PLESTINA SHOWS HONORS
Sharing equal prominence with Munn is Plestina, the trust-breaker. Local fans have long been clamoring for his appearance and he will wrestle to a finish with some worthy opponent. Plestina claims that the game is in the hands of a trust and backs this claim by the statement that once he became good enough to better the upper crust of wrestling and possibly take away a title, he was unable to get matches with the champs and near-champs, no matter what he offered them. He is anxious to prove to fans that he can defeat any member of the alleged trust! He also offers a prize to any man who can stick 30 minutes with him and thus may attract some stars who believe their ability can keep him off that long.

KIMBERLY BALL CREW READY FOR KOHLERS
Kimberly — Kimberly held their final practice in preparation for the game Saturday with Louie Loose Loose and his Kohler of Kohler squad at the Kimberly park at 4:30. Cliff Courtney, snappy Appleton baseballer, will be seen in action at second base while Butch Thelin will be at third, and Nig Verbaan will hold out at short stop. Schell will grab the hard ones around first, with Len Smith, Cooke and Koll in the outfield. Vanderloop is slated to do the throwing for the Kimberly team. Kohler is recognized as having one of the best teams in the state. Lamensky will do the calling of balls and strikes behind the bat.

THAT YANKEE LEAD DOESN'T LOOK SAFE
That Yankee lead doesn't look so safe and secure these days. Not many weeks back the Huggins team seemed to be breezing along nicely with little to worry about. Of late, however, the boys from Gotham ruinous strikes and lockouts. While other nations are trying to struggle along with a type of statal organization obviously unfitted to present conditions—mending and patching as they go—they are marching unflinchingly towards a glorious future.

Mussolini Doesn't Fear War In Europe

"No single generation, no group of citizens and still less no single citizen, has the right to militate against the nation. The state is the guardian and controlling agent of the nation. It cannot be at the mercy and whims of politicians, fluctuating from year to year in accordance with the moods of a few men who happen, through the vicissitudes of universal suffrage, to be invested with authority.

"Fascism replaces individual sovereignty by state sovereignty, the nation for the individual. By maintaining its authority, it protects the nation, affording liberty as a concession to individuals so long as they act in harmony with the interests of the state. Even more important is our destruction of class self defense. Unhappily, the advent of fascism has been associated with the organization of the economic life of the nation lay outside the province of the state. It was an erroneous idea arising from the circumstances that the present type of industrial development grew up after the functions of the liberal democratic state had been defined.

"Ours—a new type of state—is the first to repair their blunder. We have solved the problem for ourselves and perhaps for the world by incorporating into the state all forces of production. The class war is finished. A labor strike is no more excusable than insurrection. Labor and capital have equal rights and duties and their offenses are punished as crimes against the state, not as offenses against organizations.

"In fact, all organizations of the public character affecting the interests of the nation, can exist only in so far as they are inserted directly or indirectly into the tissue of the state. The absurdity of permitting the constant threat of economic civil war is ruled out."

FARMHAND HURT IN FARM RUNAWAY

Stiles Man Taken to Hospital Here After Accident

George Lichterman, 31, of Stiles, is in a serious condition at St. Elizabeth hospital from injuries received when a team of horses ran away and threw him from the wagon. One of the wagon wheels passed over his body. The accident occurred about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at a farm near Gresham where Lichterman was employed.

It was thought at first that he had not been injured seriously but as he was suffering great pain he was finally taken to St. Elizabeth hospital about 1 o'clock Friday morning. Upon examination it was found that he had suffered a rupture of the intestines and an operation was performed at once and he is still doubtful whether he will survive. The crisis will have passed in three days, according to the attending physician.

Lichterman, whose home is at Stiles, was employed by a farmer near Gresham and was making his home there during the summer. His wife and father also were at the farm when the accident occurred.

VOLSTEAD ACT IS OPPOSED BY LABOR GROUP

Federation Also Frowns on Citizens Training Camps and Vigilante System

Green Bay (AP)—The Wisconsin Federation of Labor Friday expressed its opposition to the Volstead act, citizens military training camps, the vigilante system and the city manager form of government by adoption of resolutions at its annual convention here.

The delegates who close their convention Friday renewed the demand of the organized labor for modification of the Volstead act to permit the sale of 2.75 per cent beer and assailed the training camps as a movement backed by open shop employers designed to train young workers "expected to serve as cannon fodder in the next war."

Accepting the adverse report of the legislative board on the city manager plan now operating in three Wisconsin cities, the convention advised unions throughout the state that organized labor opposes the plan as imperiling democratic government. The convention also sustained the boards opposition to the vigilante plan for protection of the small towns recently criticized by Governor Blaine and promoted by the Wisconsin Bankers' association.

The board expressed fear that whatever the purpose of the vigilantes that in every instance such agencies "ultimately have directed their opposition to the union of the floor."

VOTE IS UNANIMOUS

All four expressions were adopted without a dissenting vote or expression of opposition on the floor.

The federation made several additions to its government program for next year, including the proposal of a law requiring enforcement of the eight hour day on all building and bridge work paid for by the state.

It was passed after criticism of governor Blaine administration for awarding the contract for work on the fairgrounds to non-union contractors, was eliminated.

In addition the federation will seek laws requiring compulsory indenture of apprentices and prohibiting night employment in bakeries. The federation plans a wide observance of labor Sunday preceding labor day, and will push the extension of the old age pension system to the counties of the state, and conduct a campaign to bring the 182,000 women and children employed in Wisconsin industry into the organized labor movement.

MANY OPPOSE DRY LAW

Many voices were raised in protest against prohibition when the matter was considered Friday, and delegates considered that it had not only deprived them of their liberty, but had a detrimental effect upon organized labor in less of many members.

William Coleman, Milwaukee Socialist, condemned the "hypocrisy" of dry members of the assembly in which he served.

In the last legislature I had an opportunity to view the hypocrisy of some of the so-called dries," Mr. Coleman asserted.

"Some of them were the most active participants in the banquets that were held and then they would come staggering to tell us who didn't attend, that we should have been there and about the dancing girls from Milwaukee. It's about time we showed up the hypocrisy of the so-called dries."

Election of officers and selection of the convention city is scheduled for the closing session Friday afternoon.

New York (AP)—New York's subway strike is on again. Four hundred striking Interborough Rapid Transit company employees who Friday marched in a body into the company's yards to ask that they be given back the jobs they quit on July 6, were met with the announcement that the company would not treat with Edward P. Lavin, the strike leader.

The strikers shouted a derisive answer at the company's officials and returned to their headquarters to discuss the new phase of the strike. They declared they would not break allegiance to their strike leaders.

MARKETS

STEELS GATHER FRESH STRENGTH

Publication of Favorable Quarterly Report Influences Market

New York (AP)—Stock prices displayed a strong undertone at the opening of Friday's market. Bear traders who had sold stocks freely late Thursday, in anticipation of an increase in the New York Federal reserve bank discount rate, which failed to materialize, rushed to cover their commitments. Initial gains of a point or so were recorded by Mack Trucks, General Electric, New Consolidated, Colorado Fuel and United States Steel common.

Execution of a large volume of overnight buying orders brought about numerous gains of 1 to 5 points in the early trading.

Speculators for the decline renewed their attacks, however, whenever signs of slowing up, indicating their belief that a further downward revision of prices was necessary after the recent sustained advance.

Steels gathered fresh strength from the publication to the favorable quarterly report of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, with considerable encouragement derived by operators on the long side from the statement of President Grace that the recent increase in steel prices had not caused any appreciable lessening in demand.

Bullish operations were conducted with vigor in a number of specialties. Burns Brothers A. being one of the first to be pushed up to a new high level for the year on a quick run of over 5 points.

Foreign exchanges made further recovery on overnight reports that former Premier Poincare of France was making progress in forming a coalition government.

The usual weekend profit taking swelled the volume of sellings as the session progressed. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe broke nearly 10 points from its early high before midday and sharp reactions took place in a number of other high priced specialties, particularly DuPont and Woolworth. Meanwhile in other sections of the list, American Power and Light, Mexican Seaboard Oil and Green Cananea Copper all being elevated to new high levels for the year.

The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 1,250,000 shares.
